THE

We use 'the':

-we singular or plural nouns when we are talking about something specific which we either already know about or it is mentioned for a second time.
The car is in front of the garage. (Which car? Not any car. The car which is in front of the garage.)

-with nouns which are unique.
The sun is bright. (= The only one sun.)
The Acropolis is in Athens.

-before the names of rivers (the Amazon) and countries when they include words such as "state" "kingdom" etc.
I visited the United Kingdom.
